He did not have time to compare with his collection and they are offered as he bought them. The 1793 is a Liberty Cap, fair; 1799, poor but enough of date showing to guarantee genuineness; 1804, fair; 1809, good; 1811, very good. The case in which it was kept will be sold with it. It measures 10¾x6⅝x3¼ inches, leather covered, and with lock and key; inside, it is silk-lined, the top being padded. The coins are on card-board trays with circular places, size of coin, for 18 pieces on each; the card-board is over cotton matting and bottom of tray covered with soft cloth so as not to abrade coins on lower tray. The collection is on 4 trays, but there are 3 extra trays in the case and a top to hold everything solid. This collection, with case, cost Col. Holt $50 and should sell for nearly or quite as much.
